

The New York City Commission on Human Rights invites you to our monthly Manhattan workshops about the Human Rights Law.

Please join us to discuss the Human Rights Law and what to do if you face discrimination.

Human Rights Law 101

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 2017

Conducted in American Sign Language

6:00pm-7:30pm

*22 Reade Street, First Floor Conference Room
New York, NY 10007*

To RSVP email trainings@cchr.nyc.gov by November 17th.

To request an assistive listening device, language interpretation, or other accommodation, please email Anna Martinez at armartinez@cchr.nyc.gov by November 15th.

The NYC Commission on Human Rights enforces the NYC HUMAN RIGHTS LAW, one of the strongest human rights laws in the nation – protecting New Yorkers against discrimination in housing, employment, public accommodation, bias-based profiling by law enforcement, and discriminatory harassment.

The Commission works with organizations, advocates and community leaders to provide free Know Your Rights workshops at its borough community service centers and other locations.
